Although the City initially launched its by-district elections in 2017, all municipalities are required to make adjustments to their district lines after the release of the recent Census data to reflect how local populations have changed. This year, the release of the Census data has been delayed by several months due to the coronavirus pandemic. Members of the Morgan Hill community are invited to participate in this year's unique redistricting process to help make sure district lines respect neighborhoods, history, and geographical elements.

“Resident feedback throughout this process is critical because it will change the way our residents elect their City Council representatives for the next decade,” said Morgan Hill City Clerk Michelle Bigelow. “I strongly encourage all Morgan Hill residents to get involved by participating in our hearings, workshops, and submitting comments in order to truly represent and convey the uniqueness of our community.”

To help share information about redistricting, gather draft maps, and collect public feedback, the City of Morgan Hill has launched a dedicated redistricting website: MorganHillRedistricting2021.com.

The new website includes background information on redistricting, a tentative schedule of participation opportunities, frequently asked questions, and resources for drafting maps and sharing feedback on previously-drawn maps. The City is currently awaiting finalized Census data from the State of California, which is projected to be available in early fall 2021.

As the redistricting process moves forward, the City will continue to update the redistricting website to include additional details on future public hearings, mapping tools and opportunities, new FAQs, and more.
